The View from My Window

with Pastor Joel

The Bible tells us that governments are instituted among people in order to protect their citizens and promote prosperity. God will hold any institution accountable that does not use its power for the welfare of those who cannot defend themselves. For much of my life I've watched our government work on correcting mistakes. Sometimes they got it wrong but clearly, they were trying.

Somewhere along the line we seem to have taken a turn. Our target changed from promoting liberty and justice for all to dismantling the very building blocks of our society. Police are seen as criminals; the traditional family is looked at as having outlived its usefulness and basic human rights are being dismissed in the name of social justice.

Our freedom of self-expression is being squashed by mandates, threats of dismissal, and pressure to comply with extreme views of morality, or more properly, immorality. Sin has become official policy and righteousness is illegal. The benefits of cooperating with this new agenda are tremendous; the penalties for noncompliance will jeopardize your ability to provide for your family. Are you prepared to make a stand for what is right or willing to drink the Kool-Aid and blend in?
