The View from My Window

with Pastor Joel

I was talking with Lyric Womer after he got home from the last Royal Ranger campout. They'd had a wonderful time camping and floating down a river on innertubes. However, one of the highlights of his weekend was being able to get a shower when he got home. There's nothing quite like feeling clean. I have no idea how people lived with themselves in bygone days where they bathed once or twice a year. Even when I was a boy the expectation was once a week, the iconic Saturday night bath. I remember peeling my socks off and the standard joke was they'd be able to stand up in the corner by themselves.

A common comment I hear from people who get saved is that they "feel so clean inside". In fact, the sky looks bluer, the birds sing sweeter... It's as though their eyes and ears have been washed as well as their heart.

One of our hymns says, "There is a fountain filled with blood, flows from Immanuel's veins, and all who plunge beneath its flood loose all their guilty stains." Isn't that a wonderful promise; a great reality? "My sin, oh the bliss of this glorious thought, my sin not in part but the whole, is nailed to the cross and I bear it no more, praise the Lord! Praise the Lord oh my soul!"

Jesus' blood is still effective on every stain left behind by sin. There is freedom for all who come to Him in repentance and faith.
