The View from My Window

with Pastor Joel

If you are a football fan, you are familiar with quarterback competitions. Once a signal caller establishes himself as “elite”, the team usually eliminates any competitors so he can play unincumbered by the stress of being replaced. However, getting to that place is extremely stressful. The difference in salary alone between a starting quarterback and a backup is tens of millions of dollars a year. Understandably, said competition can get nasty.

When John the Baptist began his ministry in Israel, he didn't fit into any of the popular schools of theology or doctrine; Pharisees and Sadducees being the two most prevalent. Those groups did not see him for what he was: a fresh breath from heaven but saw him as competition for the attention of the masses.

Then Jesus begins to teach and do miracles. He created a whole new threat to the entrenched systems of religion. In order to confound both John the Baptist's ministry and that of Jesus, the religious leaders of the day tried to create jealousy between John's camp and that of Jesus. John and Jesus, knowing they were on the same team, working toward the same goal, each defused the enemy's plan by responding humbly to the situation. When the world expected them to “defend their territory”, each simply supported the other. No competition here, just mutual support and love.
