The View from My Window

With Pastor Joel

There are a lot of things in life we must do but our heart just isn't in it. We go to the dentist, clean the house, clean up the yard after the dog has used it, file our taxes... My wife will often say something like, "Do you want to wash the sheets today?" I'll respond, "I don't want to, but I will." I don't say that to be rude, but I don't like having a chore I dislike being dressed up as though it's something I like to do. Like is reserved for hobbies, entertainment, choosing a dessert, etc. Willing is me doing what I do not necessarily want to do but I will for any number of reasons, including to please my wife, to check off a necessary chore, to make our lives better, etc. In a sense, I want to do whatever needs done for the greater good but it's not because I enjoy the experience. I guess you'd say I enjoy the results, not the process.

Jesus submitted to the Father not always because He enjoyed the event but because He knew that whatever the Father wanted was best in the light of eternity. It's not unusual for us to not like what the Lord allows to happen to us but may we ever be more concerned about His pleasure than our own.
