The View from My Window

With Pastor Joel

Very few people hear God speak to them audibly. When it happens, God is working to make an indelible impression on our soul. If you are married, you have probably experienced the difficulties with hearing clearly what your spouse has said, even if they are endeavoring to speak loud and clear. Some people seem to enjoy talking to their partner from another room or even while their head is buried in a closet. They go on to become frustrated when their message goes unheeded or misunderstood. Perhaps that's why God rarely chooses to talk to us out loud. His preferred method seems to be revealing His will in layers. He begins with an impression. The Lord goes on to bolster that impression with a word from Scripture, counsel from a trusted friend, the way circumstances fall into place or all of the above. In our marital relationships, it's not so much that we didn't hear correctly that frustrates us as much as our impression that our partner wasn't trying to hear what we've said. Don't make it hard for God to direct your steps, pay attention.
